Sand Castle Contest Will Be Sept. 7

The 8th annual Great Sand Castle contest will be held on the Carmel Beach on Sept. 7.

According to Donald Brown, Monterey architect and grand marshal of the great contest for the seventh straight year, more than 400 entries are expected, indicating the contest gets larger every year.

The castles will be built on the south end of the Carmel Beach at the base of 13th Street. All that is required by entrants is registration with the grand marshall, a bucket, shovel and a plentitude of enthusiasm.

The contest is sponsored by the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and its members act as judges.

To date, only the sand marshals have been named, and they include Gene Takiqawa, Richard Rhodes, Marvin Guillermo, Wes Hessler and Eddie Fisher.

General information of help to entrants include: Get to the beach early, since the judges and marshals tend to tire walking through the sand, and the closer to the registration booth you are, the better chance for impartial judging. There is no entry fee. No experience or other qualifications are required.

Please don't dig holes deep enough for someone to fall into and hurt themselves.

The use of motorized equipment on the Carmel beach requires a special city permit.

Please leave dogs at home or keep them on a tight leash. They can destroy several hours work in just a couple of seconds.

And finally, please remove everything from the beach you brought with you.

Carmel Business Association Takes Over Lost and Found

The Carmel Business Association has inaugurated a new lost and found service designed to take the burden of a central lost and found office from the shoulders of the Carmel Police Department, which has had to carry most of the load in the past in conjunction with Bernard's Stationery.

The CBA is soliciting the assistance of all business people in the community, members and non-members alike, to establish this new service.

According to Herriet Meyer, executive secretary of the CBA, when lost articles are found on the streets, benches, park or wherever, the information should be called to the CBA by phone, or the article brought to the office.

If articles are found in shops or places of business, the proprietor can call CBA at 624-2522, between 10:30 and 3:30, describe the article and give the name of the establishment where it can be picked up by the owner.

A record of the finding is referred to when a call comes in, and the owner is directed to the place where the lost article is being held.

The annual doings start at 6:30 p.m. with cocktails, and the barbecue at 7:30. Single price of $5.50 per person includes tip, tax, wine and music. Great bargain.

Cost Squeeze of Government Causes Questions

by Gunnar Norberg

Should mayors get paid for what they do? Should city councilmen? Would you the voter and taxpayer, be better served if they were paid? Would the quality of candidates seeking municipal elective office be generally improved if some kind of uniform compensation were to apply to the positions of mayors and city councilmen?

These may be questions occurring to some taxpayers just at this time of the year as city councils throughout California are fixing, and often increasing, rates of property taxation for the present 1969-70 fiscal year.

Just last week the Carmel city tax rate was set–and it was five cents higher per hundred dollars of assessed valuation, than it had been last year. Last year's rate was $1.26. this year's, $1.31. And tax rates in other cities throughout the state were generally set at significantly higher levels.

Why? 'Inflation' is the usual ready reply. But isn't there more to it than that? There is. And what is that? The will of mayors and councilman.

Sometimes people superficially think of city managers as the central decision-making figures in those municipalities which employ city managers. But those city managers only serve so long as their services are acceptable to the mayors and councilmen who hire them, and who also can fire them.

In any event, city managers do not ultimately decide how much is to be spent or how high a tax rate is to be.

Those decisions are made only by city councils, whose only members are mayors and city councilmen.

So ultimately what city government costs and what taxes are to be applied to pay for it are decisions made by city councils at about this time of the year.

The de isions are usually made after a long series of budget sessions– most of which are open to the public-- but to which members of the public rarely come.

In Carmel this year, for the first time, the budget sessions– held in June– at which the decision to raise salaries by 5% was made were not open to public because of an interpretation of a change in the state's "open meeting" law.

However, other budget sessions held last week and the week before, were quite open to the public, though hardly any citizens attended.

Preliminary budgets are the work of city managers or city administrators (such as Hugh Bayless here), city finance officers (such as Carmel's Arthur Plaxton), and the various department heads– police chiefs, fire chiefs, public work superintendents, librarians and their boards, specialized managers and various commissions to which they report.

Often sections in a preliminary city budget are prepared with a king-of-tongue- in-cheek attitude, or with the expectation that something is bound to be cut out or cut down when city councils use either fine or crude paring knives on the figures in an initially proposed budget.

How fine or how crude the city countil budget-paring knife is in any given instance often is based on the amount and kind of honing given the knife before it is used. And that, in turn, often depends on the time and effort put into that honing. And, perhaps even more importantly, how able and how willing the honer is to do the needed honing.

And this– in the best figuritive sense– is true not just in summertime budget-making and tax-setting months, but throughout the year, because all the cities' policy-making decisions, of whatever kind, are made month-by-mouth, sometimes week-by-week, all year and every year– and by mayors and city councilmen.

Now what about that matter of pay or not, for mayors and councilmen? And how might pay-- particularly more than token pay– affect not just tax rates, important though they are, but also all policy-making functions of whatever kinds in California cities? And, more particularly, here in Carmel?

Until just a few years ago, it was extremely difficult for mayors and councilmen to receive any pay at all. In the "general law" cities– such as Seaside and Carmel it was necessary to ask voters at a regular election of they wished to see mayors and councilmen receive pay, and– if so– how much. In the "charter cities"-- usually longer established and larger cities– authority to pay mayors and councilmen was usually either spelled out or ruled out. Peninsula charter cities are Monterey and Pacific Grove. Monterey's charter presently forbids pay to mayors and councilmen, while a recent amendment to Pacific Grove' perm Pacific Grove's mayor is to receive $150 a month? councilmen, $50.)

Getting back to the relatively new state legislation which makes it possible for city councils in "g eneral law" cities simply to vote themselves pay by passing a salary ordinance applying to themselves– instead of asking voters at an election– Seaside's city countil did pass such an ordinance, but Carmel did not-- and has not yet. (Seaside's mayor and its city councilmen now each get $150 a month).

The right of city councils to vote its members pay, is not, however, unlimited. The enabling state legislation set the maxium rates which city councils, by their own action, could vote themselves, and the legislation is based on a population formula. In a city under 5,000 population, such as Carmel, the most city council members could vote themselves, would be $75 a month, while in a city such as Seaside recently was– between 5,000 and 35,000 population– the maximum monthly pay could not exceed $150.

Often the city government– in small towns and cities– is the biggest fiscal entity and the largest single operating unit within its own municipal bounds.

And the policy-making body– the city council–in such a town or city is meeting every month, sometimes every week, sometimes almost daily. In small towns, such as Carmel, which employs no city manager, members of the city council also perform many executive functions, in addition to their usual legislative ones. And all city councils act in a quasi-judicial capacity when appeals from decisions of city boards-- such as planning commissions– are taken to them on appeal for adjudication. (Carmel employs a city administrator ragher than a city manager, and thus the city council reserves to itself many final executive functions).

Occasionally through the years– often by mayors and city councilmen themselves after long-wearying sessions– thought has been given, even in Carmel, to the matter of whether mayors and councilmen should get paid, but no salary proposal has yet received council approval.

Why? The usual reasons anywhere. Pay which councilmen could vote themselves often seems merely token, and not worth the possible disapproval of voters, and in any event would not be enough to pay in any proper sense for time and effort required.

What's the result? That would be hard to measure. Most mayors and councilmen would say, and might even believe, that they would work no harder nor would they pare expenses or hold down taxes any better, no matter what they were to be paid, even though logic and some experience might point to a different conclusion.

In little more than ten years, with hardly any increase in population, for example, Carmel's annual city expenses have more than tripled– from about $360,000 to about $1,100,000. This is much more than the cost of living has risen in the same period.

Blood Drawing Set For Friday, September 5

Carmel's quarterly blood drawing has been set for Friday, Sept. 5, from 9:30 a.m. thru 1:30 p.m. at the Red Cross chapter house on Dolores and 8th Sts.

The mobile unit from the regional blood center in San Jose hopes to return with an excess of the 100-pint quota which will be converted to use as red blood cells, platelets and plasma.

Of special interest to many Carmel residents is a new ruling from the American National Red Cross that donors in good health may now give up to their 66th year.

In California, State law requires the donor over 60 to present a doctor's certificate attesting to his health and ability to donate.

A fringe benefit to Carmel donors is the delicious sandwich lunch served by Red Cross volunteers, with yummy applesauce cake and coffee.

A single donation covers the donor and his immediate family for blood needs for a year, while gallon or more donors receive lifetime protection.

Appointments may be made by calling 624-6455 any week-day - 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Lyceum Gets Award For Community Service

The Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula has just been awarded a citation by the Lane Bryant Volunteer Awards Committee for 1969, according to Lyceum President, Captail Ralph Arndt.

The citation indicates that the Lyceum will now be actively considered for an award for distinguished community service. Presented annually since 1948, the awards encourage voluntary participation in activities designed to be beneficial to the American community.

Each year one award is made to an individual, one to an organization.

Carmel is represented on the 33-member Board of Directors of the Lyceum by Professor Harry E. Handler, Vice President, Mrs. Robert W. Priestley, Chairman of the Music Committee, Mrs. Archer Allen, Mrs. Fulton Freeman, Mrs. Douglas Martz, Mrs. James D. Niebel, Mr. W. R. Rosecrans, Mrs. Steven Sassoon, and Mrs. George Yates. Miss Claire M. Kennedy and Dr. Robert P. Parsons are honorary Life Members.

Also on the Board are Lawrence R. Bemis, Vice President, Dr. John H' Phillips, Jr., Advisor, Mrs. Rabun W. Thompson, Secretary and past President, Mrs. Arnold Bowhay, Professor Austin R. Frey, Mr. Fred Muhs, Mr. Dennis B. Radford, Mrs. Saul Weingarten, all of Pebble Beach.

The Lyceum was nominated for the national award by Rear Adm. Robert W. McNitt, superintendent of the Naval Postgraduate School.

In addition to Admiral McNitt's nominating letter, seconding letters of recommendation were written by U' S' Congressman Burt L' Talcott, Dr. Paul W. Plowman, California State Department of Education Consultant in the Education of the Mentally Gifted, and Dr. Ruth A. Martinson, director of Teacher Education Programs, California State College, Dominguez Hills.

According to Jerome E. Klein, director of the Lane Bryant Volunteer Awards, the Citation's dual purpose is to recognize the Lyceum's superior achievement and to inform that it is now an active candidate for final awards.

The Lyceum is a locally inspired and locally directed organization of lay citizens of the Monterey Peninsula community, independent of financial support from any federal or state agency.

Expenses of providing challenging opportunities for learning for intellectually gifted young people are met through private gifts and from donations of civic organizations.

Among these are the Carmel Rotary Club, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs of the Peninsula area, Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, Monterey Jazz Festival, Bing Crosby Youth Fund, SCRAMP.

President Arndt reports that in the past two years, the Lyceum has enrolled over 1600 students in the various seminars and workshops, from grades 4 through 14, involving them in more than 2600 seminar hours.

The Lyceum enlists the numberless talents, skills and knowledge specialties in the Peninsula community, adults who are willing to share with gifted students in a discussion and exchange learning situation. These adults are volunteers. Included in this divers instructional staff are practicing physicians, teachers, architects, artists, musicians, engineers, lawyers, clergymen, mathematicians, scientists, linguists, and Naval officers.

An outstanding volunteer's program has been that of Mrs. Hugh Hannon (Virginia Blair Hannon), ho has led a group of four promising art students through a tutorial during which the young people met at her house and worked with her in her studio for three hours weekly during the entire past year.

Student participants are nominated by the staffs of all public, private, and prochial schools of the Peninsula area. Eligibility is determined by nominators, using the California State requirements for identification of mentally gifted minors.

Attendance at seminars and workshops is voluntary, based on the student's individual interests. There is no tuition charge. A nominal registration covers administrative costs, and partial scholarships are available for students unable to defray these limited expenses.

Over the past few years, the Lyceum has become recognized not only throughout the State of California but also in other areas of the United States where parents and educators have become concerned with the problems associated with the development of giftedness. As a community resource organization, the Lyceum has been helpful to newly organizing groups in an advisory capacity.

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

This year's Caldecott Medal winner, THE FOOL OF THE WORLD AND THE FLYING SHIP, a Russian tale retold by Arthur Ransome, is now in the library. It is charmingly illustrated by Uri Shulevitz, with bold colors and a lot of good humor.

The Fool of the Worl decides to look for the flying ship to take to the Czar, who has promised to give his daughter in marriage to the man who brings him this ship with wings that will sail through the sky. Everyone laughs at the Fool, including his mother, but he sets of anyway, finds the ship and marries the princess. He becomes so clever that all the court repeats everything he says. It ends like this: "The Czar and the Czaritza liked him very much, and as for the Princess, she loved him to distraction."

For the beginning readers who have been hearing their older brothers and sisters talk about CHITTY CHITTY BANG BANG, THE MAGICAL CAR, and who want to read it themselves, we have a simplified version of Ian Fleming's popular story. It is only for the very new readers, as it tells the story briefly. But it will make the younger ones feel that they are catching up with the advanced readers A new book which should have recurring interest to many readers is THE LOOK-IT-UP-BOOK- OF TRANSPORTATION, by Bernice Kohn. It is arranged like a dictionary, beginning, of course, with airplane and ending with zeppelin. Between these are such topics as galleon, carriage, pony express, skis, subway and warship. There are some excellent illustrations, both photographs and illustrations, done by George Tuckwell. It is both informative and fun.

For the older readers, and also for many adults, James Forman has written another of his unsettling novels dealing with such subjects as cowardice, responsibility and compromise. THE TRAITORS is a dramatic story about the Eichhorn family during the years 1938 to 1945.

Speaking of his Nazi son, Pastor Eichhorn says, "Kurt doesn't intend to do evil, ... He simply has lost the will to do good." Eichhorn's foster son Paul admits he is a coward, but does finally join the conspirators in the church of Ravenskirch. It is a well-written and thought-provoking novel, besides being an exciding story.

Hunt On For Hidden Diabetics

The crash program to uncover "hidden diabetics"--people who suffer from diabetes and don't know it--ends Sunday, Aug. 31, with the conclusion of Diabetes Safety Check Month.

In an effort to detect and help people who have diabetes before it is too late, the Northern California Diabetes Associations in cooperation with the Northern California Pharmaceutical Association, and other Diabetes Associations, is making available free diabetic test kits to the public.

The kits may be obtained at any of the 1500 member pharmacies in Northern California indentified by the N.C.Ph.A. emblem on its door or window.

Although the program officially ends in August, N.C.Ph.A. member pharmacies will continue to make the Diabetes Test Kits available to the public upon request, although analysis reports may take somewhat longer.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. I have read that custodial care is not covered by Medicare. What is meant by custodial care?

A. Sometimes the kind of care people receive is needed primarily to help them meet the needs of daily living, that is, assistance in bathing, dressing, eating, walking, or taking medicine on schedule. When meeting these needs is the primary purpose of the care being furnished, it is called custodial care.

Q. My wife will have her 65th birthday next month. She is seriously ill and in need of immediate and expensive surgery. She has never worked and therefore is not eligible for Medicare. I won't be 65 until next year and because I am still working do not wish to apply for social security yet. Is there any way in which my wife can become entitled to Medicare now?

A. Yes. If you apply for retirement benefits your wife can apply for wife's benefits. As an age 65 beneficiary she will be entitled to Medicare. Although your benefit amount will be reduced because you applied before age age 65, it will be adjusted when you reach 65 to give credit for benefits which were withheld because of your earnings. If you continue working until 65, there will be no permanent reduction.

(Mail your questions to Social Security, c/o the Carmel Pine Cone, Carmel, or phone Social Security office 373-3351).

Savings Bond Sales Predicted By Chairman

Monterey County U.S. Savings Bonds Chairman Raymond M. Smith today disclosed latest sales figures and predicted upward trends resulting from the new, higher 5% interest prospective rate on current Payroll Savings drives in business and industry as well as all bank sales.

This county's U. S. Savings Bond sales for the year to date reported are $1,537,364; for July $201,210. California sales for the year to date were reported as $216,033,418. July of this year they were $28,695,447.

The Savings Bonds leader commented:

"Many Payroll Savings campaigns underway, or to be launched, should find this new and higher rate of 5%, which President Nicon and Treasury officials have urged Congress to approve, a motivator for encouraging more people to take to systematic thrift. Patriotism and a willingness to help the nation strengthen to dollar have been strong reasons for many persons to buy U. S' Savings. Bond.

Dow Theory Business and Stock Market Forecasts letter dated August 22 states "In spite of the rally, there are few dependable indications yet that this bear market is over.

Musical Comments

By Margot Hyatt

The third Hidden Valley concert at All Saints' ended as the others had, with everyone in the well filled church on his feet and cries of Encore!

It was a varied program which included the Chichester Psalms by Leonard Bernstein, two operatic arias, Gypsy songs by Brahms, and a Mozart symphony.

Most controversial, of course, was the Bernstein work, sung in Hebrew by the Chorale, with its bombastic "joyful noice unto the Lord," containing the shythms of modern jazz. Percussion work was by Gary Coates, with Randall Bare at the paino.

It continued with a delicate and touching blues theme in the 23rd Psalm. The muted ending of the third Psalm effectively expressed the thought, "And how pleasant it is for the brethern to dwell together in unity."

The orchestra was then given the task of accompanying Alan Gilbert, baritone with the San Francisco Opera Co., in two arias by Mozart and Verdi The last, "Credo", from "Otello" was most dramatic and the orchestra did an exquisite job as led by Dr. Michael Zearrott.The Gypsy song, Zigeunlieder, by Brahms, followed the intermission, also accompanied by Bare.

These songs, pure Brahms, with all the variety, movement and harmony of the Brahms' waltzes, were utterly delightful as led by John Waddell.

Mozart's "Prague" Symphony was given a very fine reading by these young people whom you expected to drop from exhaustion from preparing such a program in a week, and ended with Weber's exciting Overture to Oberon.

The final concert on Friday, Aug. 29 at 8:15 was announced by Peter Meckel, dean of the Seminars which have established headquarters in Carmel.

The "gayety, joy and directness" of a Mozart Mass sung by the Hidden Valley Chorale on Sunday morning, helped to celebrate the Feast of St. Bartholomew, the disciple "without guile" at All Saints' Episcopal Church, at which Rev. David Hill officiated.

Henry Waddell led the youthful voices who were accompanied at the piano by Randall Bare.

Farewell Parties For Michel Mackay

Michel Mac Kay, executive secretary of the Carmel Bach Festival for the past ten years, has gained four pounds, she said as a result of all the farewell parties being given for her.

Michel and her husband, Alistair Mac Kay, are leaving for northern California on September 20.

A sherry party was given for her on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hays (Nancy) Ballard. The Ballards live in the house formerly occupied by Hazel Watrous and Dene Denny who started the Bach Festival 32 years ago.

There was a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Harwell (Phyllis) Dyer of Carmel Valley, and a coffee given by Mrs. Betty Chappell at the Carmel Hacienda.

Tomorrow evening there will be a dinner for the departing Mac Kays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein and next Tuesday Fritz Wurzmann has invited them for lunch.

A luncheon at the home of Mrs. Leonard (Mimi) Klene will take place on Thursday of next week and so it goes.

"It has been a hard Festival this year, my last," said Michel, "I think of it as my little child.

"It was hard to do my own work and train someone else at the same time."

The Mac Kays will will on the Smith River, about 12 miles north of Crescent City.

Michel has already been invited to be on the board o fthe Del Norte County Music Association and they have located a little Episcopal Church and met the rector.

Michel and Alistair made their farewells at the last Arts Coordinating Council meeting on Tuesday of last week.

Father Michael Buckley Returns to Lynwood

Father Michael D. Buckley, whose one-man show of ecclesiastical paintings is creating a sensation at The Aardvark Gallery in Carmel Valley, departed from the Monterey Peninsula Monday to return to his duties as chaplain of the St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood, Calif.

During his stay here, Father Buckley performed parish duties and said the masses at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in the Valley, permitting the regular parish priest, Father Douglas Keating, to take a ten-day vacation.

Father Buckley, who paints under the name of Jesus Maria Serra, has timed his one-man show to coincide with the 185th anniversary of the death of Father Junipero Serra on Aug. 28, 1784. The show will run through September.

Following a guitar mass at the church last Sunday, The Aardvark was host to the singing nuns from the Sacred Heart School in Turlock, Calif., at a special showing of Father Serra's works. The gallery will remain open on Sunday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. during the month of August to accomodate churchgoers.

OBITUARY

MRS. JULIE GILBERT, much loved Carmel resident for many years, died on August 2. A gifted person, following her graduation from Kemp Place School in New Jersey, she spent a year at the Beaux Arts in Paris.

AFS Student Sherri Stuart Back From Year in Vienna

Sherri Stuart, AFS exchange student, returned recently from a year in Austria.

Sherri Stuart, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart of Carmel is back from the land of wiener schnitzel and Viennese pastries after a year with a Swiss family in Baden, about 20 miles from Vienna.

"The weather played dirty tricks," said the American Field Service exchange student. "Just as I got used to being cold, it was the end of March and the weather changed to 110. After a week or two it would snow.

"At the grand opening of the swimming pool in Baden, it snowed.

"In the middle of July in Innsbruck, we made snow men up in the mountains in our sun dresses and used our umbrellas to protect us from snow balls."

She described the midnight mass in the village of Dornbach where Silent Night was written, with its mountains straight up on either side.

Carooloers blowing horns made of straightened mountain goat horns and other wind instruments wandered about singing the famous carol.

"A typical Austrian Christmas tree," she said, "is a fir tree trimmed with bright red apples, stars made of real straw, dampened and ironed, and real candles.

"On December 6, Grampus day, children put our their shoes. If they have been good, candy will be put in the shoe, if bad, switches and pieces of coal."

Sherri, since she was not perfect, received a switch and candy.

"On Three Kings Day, January 6," continued Sherri, "kids dress up like the Magi, some with charcoal on their faces, and go around singing. One of a horde of assistants carries a money box."

Sherri and her sister Karen, who has been in Seattle for the summer, have maintained close communication.

Even though traveling by air on a stand-by basis, they managed to meet in San Francisco and surprise their parents by walking in one evening.

Sherri already has a job at the Valley Cinema and has purchased a used Volkswagon to get her back and forth to Monterey Peninsula College this fall.

She plans to major in cultural anthropology and transfer to the University of California at Santa Cruz.

She is glad to be back in Carmel and to stay in one spot for a change.

Exchange Student

The Rod Holmgren family is getting acquainted with its new "son" Rene Madelaire, who arrived last week from Virum, Denmark.

Rene, an American Field Service exhange student, will attend Carmel High School for the 1969-70 school year.

Rummage Sale

Plans for a rummage sale were made at the last meeting of the Carmel Kiwanis Club.

It will be held on Saturday, Aug. 30, from noon until 3, at Carmel High School gym.

J.R. Hughes, Oriental stamps dealer, spoke on famous and infamous collectors who were philatists.

Craig Clark of Carmel Highlands was one of a group of 17 in the recent anti-smoking clinic at All Saints' run by Ted Curtis (R), who were successful in kicking the cigarette habit last week. Only five of the original 22 dropped out. Clark was motivated by his year old Son Christopher. "We can kill ourselves without impunity until we have someone not to kill ourselves for," he said. "It's too easy to rationalize." A heavy smoker since the age of 19, Clark admitted that he couldn't stop by himself. The clinic, third one held there, was modelled after the national program put on by the 7th Day Adventists at which Curtis succeeded in ending the habit. A reunion of all participants in his clinics will be held at Grant Hall, All Saints', Fri. evening. Aug.29 at 7:30.

Pianists and Quintet At Forest Theatre Sunday

On Sunday afternoon Aug. 31 at 2 p.m., the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula will present its prize winners in the Young Artists' Auditions held in the spring of this year, in concert, as the concluding event of the Forest Theatre Sunday Afternoon Concert Series.

Featured will be Ruth Mirikitani, 17-year-old pianist, and Sp/4 Brian R. Iwai of the 28th Army Band, Fort Ord.

Miss Mirikitani took first place in the Youth Auditions. She will play works by Bach, Chopin, and Gershwin.

Sp/4 Brian Iwai studied at the Julliard School in New York City and more recently took first place in the Sixth Army Talent Contest for the West Coast. He will display a brilliant technique in a group of Chopin Works.

A special treat for music lovers, will be the playing of Schubert's ever popular "Trout" Quintet by a group of young musicians from the Hidden Valley Music Seminar. These young artists have thrilled and impressed all who have heard them in the concerts presented in recent weeks at All Saints' Church in Carmel.

All programs start promptly at 2 p.m. and are free to the public.

Red Cross Office Needs More Volunteers, Relief Pledges

Miss Dorothy James, executive secretary of the local American Red Cross chapter, has been on vacation in Pasadena during the recent Camille hurricane disaster.

Mrs. William M. Shanner and the ever faithful Dorothy von Meier have been carrying on in her absence, but more volunteers are needed to handle the many inquiries about disasters.

Disaster relief checks have been coming in and it is hoped that the $1000 quota will have been topped by the time of her return this week.

Unfortunately used clothing and blankets cannot be accepted due to cost of cleaning and shipping, lack of storage and sorting problems.

It is more helpful to the local Southern economy to purchase needed items there, it has been decided by Red Cross authorities.

Beebe Returns In Yacht

Word comes that Capt. Robert Beebe (USN ret) made it across the Atlantic in Passageway, the yavht he had built in Singapore several years ago.

It took him only 32 days to make the crossing, with stops at Bermuda, Horta, and the Azores Islands.

In the meantime, Mrs. Beebe, who is known in Carmel as Linford Donovan, had been touring and painting in Spain. (Linford is noted for her warm portraits of people everywhere.)

They met and were entertained in Ireland, at the Royal Cork Yacht Club, the world's oldest yacht club, which was celebrating its 250th anniversay by hosting a cross-Atlantic race in which 35 yachts participated.

They stayed with the boat for a cruise of the west coast of Scotland, and after delivering the boat to a new owner, left the boat at Inverness for a land tour of Scotland and England.

Now they are headed home for Carmel by freight steamers which will take them awhile, probably until October, while their home is being occupied by another retired Naval captain who is building a home.

Mike Cook Takes Job In Portland

Ceremony Unites Eugenie Kodani and John Childress

The wedding of Eugenie Karen Kodani of Carmel Highlands and John Richard Childress took place on Aug. 16 at the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

The afternoon ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Reimers of Winters, a friend of the groom's family.

She went to Bay School, "the little red school house," where her father went, as well as Sunset when it was a school.

A graduate of Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College, she majored in political science at the University of California at Riverside where she met her husband.

John, who majored in zoology, returned in July from Beirut, Lebanon, where he studied for a year at the American University. He will do graduate work in marine biology at UC Riverside.

Eugenie wore a floor length gown, which she designed and made herself, of candlelight organza over bridal satin, with chapel train.

Her full length veil was held by stephanotis and yellow roses and she carried a bouquet of the same flowers.

Marilyn Kodani was her sister's maid of honor, and her bridesmaids were Lucinda Kodani, another sister, Margaret Childress, the groom's sister, and Cathie Jacobi of San Luis Obispo.

Miss White, writer of astology columns and feature articles, said, "in the talk we will focus on everyday lives. Using numerology, each person will figure out his soul number, and with the number sheets provided they can learn to do astology for the whole family. They can tell, for instance, why they are more compatible with one child in a family than another, or how to choose a mate, or a profession."

There will be a wuestion and answer period on astology. Miss White said, "Numerology is the science of numbers. It was more predominant among the ancients – studied by many more people. The number of steps in the pyramids was determined by it."

Clark Art Features Egg Tempera

The subtleties achieved through egg tempera, one of the oldest known painting mediums are a feature in the art of Robert Clark, whose paintings will be shown at the Zantman Galleries in Carmel from Aug. 29 until Sept. 26.

Clark came to California from Minnesota in 1948, and was on the staff of the Long Beach Museum and later the Los Angeles Museum.

For the past five years he has painted and lived on the coast in central California.

Few contemporary painters use egg tempera, since it is a demanding and difficult medium, but Robert Clark paints in tempera with a deftness and sureness that stems from his involvement with intellect, logic and emotion.

The Zantman Gallery is located on 6th Ave., near San Carlos.

Lithography Workshop Opens

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art will co-sponsor a lithography workshop with Carmel Graphics at their Sunset Center Studio in room 4.

Movie Review

Eye of the Cat–Thriller involved with mental abberations and hints of the supernatural. Eleanor Parker is glamorous, rich and an invalid, and has this things about cats. At the Marina Drive In.

Secret Ceremony-Mia Farrow plays a mentally retarded girl who has an unusual sexual relationship with an aging courtesan played by Elizabeth Taylor. Ending is unusual. At the Village.

Support Your Local Sheriff-Familiar routines receive ridiculous twists in this zany comedy about a stranger, James Garner, who wanders into a western town and becomes its offbeat sheriff. Even the music is funny. At the Valley Cinema.

The April Fools-Entertaining exercise in comedy and romance about a frustrated suburbanite and the beautiful stranger who encourages him to chunk the rat race and escape with her. At the Grove.

No Way to Treat a Lady-Rod Steiger is cast as a psychopathic strangler specializing in elderly ladies. George Segal is the cop on the case, Lee Remick is the girl with whom he falls in love. At the Marina Auto Movie.

Staircase-Rex Harrison and Richard Burton play two aging homosexual barbers who live together over their shop. The dialogue is witty and poignant, and the acting is an outstanding triumph for both men. At the Golden Bough.

The Lost Man-It's quite obvious Sidney Poitier cannot turn in a bad performance, and "The Lost Man" is no exception. He is cast as a loser in a story of suspense and racial protest. Al Freeman Jr., lends Poitier strong support. At the Village Theater in Carmel.

Midnight Cowboy-Jon Voight is a Texas drifter who winds up in New York, and Dustin Hoffman is a corrupt con man who serves as his guide. This is a highly recommended, extremely thoughtful comedy. At the Steinbeck on Cannery Row.

Daddy's Gone A-Hunting-Chilling drama about a maniac (Paul Burke) who kidnaps a woman's new-born baby. At the State in Monterey.

The Party-A lampoon of a Hollywood houseparty, and Peter Sellers takes advantage of the situation to exercise his boundless comedy talents. Sellers just has to be one of the most talented people in show business. At the Grove in Pacific Grove.

Oliver!–This Academy Award winner is based on the Charles Dickens novel Oliver Twist. From the London musical stage and directed by Sir Carol Reed. At Cinema 70.

Funny Girl–Barbra Streisand's first movie. Life story of Fanny Brice. Omar Sharif as gangster Nick Arnstein is outstanding, Walter Pidgeon too. At the Regency.

Vixen–Erica Gavin, one of the most generously endowed of the new screen sirens, in a plotty bit with racial strife, sex, the draft, sex, the Vietnam war, sex and communism . . . and sex. At the Hill.

Stage Review

George M.!–Oh, those old-time songs! A play based loosely on the life story of George M. Cohan, one of the greatest "song and dance" men of all times. Loud, brassy, pushy, egotistical, but with an undeniable genius, Cohan dominated Broadway for most of 25 years. The cast at the Studio turns in a superior set of performances, and the play is sheer delight from the first curtain. Dinner and the show constitutes the outstanding entertainment bargain on the entire peninsula. You must have reservations! Call 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Electric Music Hall– Playing at the White Oaks Theater in Carmel Valley, "Music Hall" is a collection of music, nostalgic to nowadays, from "Over the Rainbow" to selections from "Hair," the controversial stage production. "Electric Music Hall" is part of a three-section presentation by the White Oaks players. "Electric" plays Thursday and Friday evenings, "The Fantasticks" on Saturday and Sunday nights, and a matinee on Sunday features "The Box of Seven Faces," particularly for the younger set.

Secret Life of Walter Mitty–Kudos, huzzahs, cheers and hoop-de-do for one of the finest productions to hit the area. Musical version of James Thurber's classic story of the little man who has built a dream world to relieve his frustrations. Michael Keller is Walter Mitty, the embodiment of everything Thurber must have had in mind when he produced Mitty. The rest of the cast is outstanding, the production, direction, staging, everything, done in sensational style. Reservations are a must at the Circle Theater, 624-2669.

PENIIINNAH, PINEEENNAH . . . One of the running comedy bits in the Circle Theater's production of "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" is the pronounciation of the name of Mitty's daughter, Pininnah. Walter Mitty, played by Michael Keller, and Shawn Guild as Peninnah, sing one of the hit tunes from the play, "Walking With Peninnah". "Walter Mitty" plays alternate weeks with "Sweet Charity" at the Circle Theater on Casanova St. between 8th and 9th. Call 624-2669 for reservations daily except Monday and Tuesday.

What's Really Cooking in Saigon?

Apart from the political and military issues still at stake in today's Vietnam, let's see what's really cooking now in Saigon. And what makes Vietnamese food different from those of other Oriental countries?

Charcoal cookery is relatively new to the United States, but the Vietnamese have been doing it for centuries.

Even in the homes of the well-to-do, the stove is still almost unknown. Theirs is a built-in charcoal grill. For the lower classes, the household "kitchen" is a small clay charcoal grill which can be fired up indoors or out – in any room of the house, should there be more than one room.

The many cultures which have touched the shores of Vietnam in centuries past are reflected in the variety of their foods. Hot Hindu curries and the Mongolian firepots made of brass are "everyfay." Soupe Chinoise is practically the national dish. There are "soup parlors" which serve nothing else. Rolling soup stands appear all over the city. This Chinese soup is eaten at any time of the day – for breakfast, lunch or dinner or as an in-between snack.

Nuoc mam is the standard staple condiment of the country. It is a liquid sauce derived from fermented fish! We strongly recommend that anyone wishing to try Vietnamese cuisine do so in the great outdoors. The flavor is good, but the odor permeates and lingers on. Nuoc mam is available at certain specialty food shops in the San Francisco area.

The Vietnamese people eat many vegetables: raw, pickled or prepared in the Chinese manner, quickly and gently sauteed, always crisp. Rice and noodles form a large part of their diet.

So for the adventurous readers to try, we present the following authentic Vietnamese recipes. Some of these we learned from a Vietnamese instructor at the Presidio of Monterey's Defense Language Institute who demonstrated at the international cooking sessions there.

Shrimp Balls

Two lbs. fresh shrimp; 1 can water chestnuts, drained and coarsely chopped; 1 egg slightly beaten; 1 T. cornstarch; 1 t. sherry; ½ t. salt; corn oil for frying. Serves 8.

Shell, clean and devein the shrimp, then chop coarsely. Mix with other items, excepting the oil. Form into small balls. Heat corn oil in deep, heavy skillet to 375 F. Oil should be 1 inch deep, but utensil not more than 1/3 full. Fry shrimp until golden brown. Drain on absorbent towels. Serve hot with chili sauce or the following:

Chinese Sauce

One T. cornstarch; ¼ t. sugar; 1 T. soya sauce; ¾ cup bouillon. Cook over low heat; stir until thickened. To go with these, a nice aperitif is chilled blond or red Dubonnet or a light dry white wine or vin rose.

Vietnamese Borsch (Kiem)

One lb. sweet potatoes; 1 lb. pumpkin; 1 lb. carrots; 2 cups coconut milk (extracted from grated cocnut); salt and pepper to taste.

Peel and dice the vegetables and put into large pan. Cover with water, bring to a boil and cook at a steady roll 5 min. Reduce heat and cook until vegetables are soft. Remove vegetables from liquid and mash well. Blend these with own liquid in which they were cooked. Do this ahead. When ready to serve, bring borsch again to boiling point; add coconut milk, salt and pepper, Stir and serve at once.

Pork Stew

Two lbs. fresh pork rump with fat, skin and meat in one piece; liquid from one green coconut; nuoc mam to taste (1 cup); sugar, salt and pepper.

Cut meat into serving size pieces or leave whole. Place in pan and pour over liquid from green coconut. If unobtainable use clear chicken broth. Boil with pan half covered with lid.

Simmer over low fire an hour or until meat is very tender. Cut into mouth-sized pieces if cooked whole. Se rve hot over

Native Rice Casserole (Com Tay Cam)

Two cups white rice; 1 carrot; 4 cups water; 1 lb. cooked fresh chicken cut into reasonably thick slices; bacon grease, shortening or butter to taste; salt.

Place rice, grated peeled carrot and water in large earthenware casserole. Cook as you would normally. When rice is dilated but not yet soft, reduce heat. Mix in the chicken. Cover again and cook until chicken is really hot and the rice is done. Pour a bit of butter over. A successful rice casserole must have a crust on the bottom and sides of the dish. This should be browned but not burned. Sliced bamboo shoots may also be added but be sure to include the carrot which gives a slightly sweet taste. Add salt to taste. Serves 6.

Candied Tomatoes (Ca To Mach)

Two lbs. small cherry tomatoes; 1 cup sugar; ¼ cup water; ½ t. vanilla.

Wash tomatoes carefully and dry, leaving stems attached. Make a slit with a sharp knife into each tomato and carefully remove pulp. Drain well, In a large skillet, combine sugar, water and vanilla. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves and syrup will form a thread.

Add tomatoes and continue cooking, turning tomatoes in syrup carefully for 5 min. Remove tomatoes (which have shriveled slightly) by stems and place on wax paper to cool. Dry these in sun for two days. Wrap individually in squares of clear cellophane Twist tops and refrigerate until ready to use. Do not keep longer than four days.

Mix combinations of tropical fruits cut into dice with powdered sugar and fresh lime juice. Serve from chilled glass bowl. Fortune cookies are more Chinese than Vietnamese but add gayety. Pineapple or orange sherbert with almond cookies or macaroons also give a happy finale with fragrant Jasmine tea.

Denmark Is A Lovely Fairytale Country

There is truly a gap between the traditional rushing through a country and to really enjoy a tour by relaxed travel - even along secondary roads with ample time to enjoy what goes on around you.

This especially goes for Denmark with its unspoiled charm of the Fairytale country, its many old inns, its fascinating mini-museums, magnificent castles, its lovely villages and green roads for heavenly driving.

And more so than every before in 1969: Beautiful new country hotels are popping up everywhere. exciting hydrofoils plow the waters, so you can reach your destination easier and faster, and new 3-deck ferry boats that accommodate more than 400 cars on each trip practically eliminate waiting time, and make travel a delightful pleasure in itself.

Here is some hot news for world travelers:

Fairytale Inns
Welcome American
Visitors in Denmark:

With due respect to all the new super hotels which are growing up all over the world with floodlit swimming pools and miles of wall to wall carpeting, what can be compared with a visit to a real Danish Fairytale Inn with delightful dining in a truly romantic setting?

Not only will you enjoy your meal in historic surroundings with antiques and old colorful interiors, but the meal itself will often consist of local specialties and delicacies which you will not find in the smart international places in the cities.

A few of the inns also offer overnight accommodations. We suggest you write to the Danish National Travel Office, 505 5th Ave. in New York for a list of Fairytale Inns in Denmark before you start your trip, or check with your local travel agent.

Don't Miss Denmark's
Many Mini-Museums:

One of Europe's main attractions has always been the great art-and treasure-collections of its museums and they are therefore included in every European itinerary.

With the tremendous increase in motor-tourism, the numerous and fascinating off-the-beaten-track-museums suddenly become within easy reach of visitors from abroad.

Denmark is especially lucky in this respect as this country has a wealth of exciting "Mini-Museums" offering all kinds of special interest collections from the finest in national art to special museums with unique collections of veteran cars, bottled ships and even pipes.

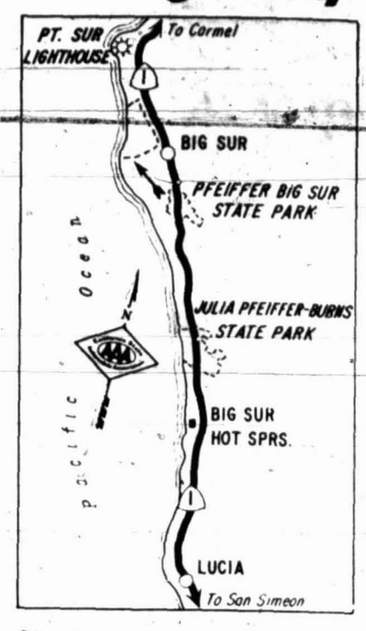
Denmark's mini-museums give an important contribution towards the understanding of the cultural background of this happy country and can be recommended as a valuable supplement to the sights and attractions American motorists enjoy when touring Denmark's green roads and fairytale inns.

Beautiful Big Sur Reached By Spectacular Highway

One of the world's most spectacular coastal highways leads the traveler to the heart of the almost legendary Big Sur Country in Monterey County.

It's grandness and beauty delights with every turn of the famour Cabrillo Highway that winds and twists, climbs and drops along the edge of the Pacific Ocean.

You'll want to drive slowly and allo enough leisure time for excursions on the unpaved side roads that wind either to secluded beaches or into the rare forested interiors of the Santa Lucia range, says the California State Automobile Association.



At least 25 creeks and canyons are spanned by bridges as the highway winds from Carmel Highlands south to Kirk Creek with the famous engineering marvel, Bixby Creek Bridge, a popular subject for many photographers. If you want to see some spectacular sights and aren't afraid to venture out on a narrow, but perfectly safe catwalk, take the one at Bixby Creek Bridge. Observation alcoves offer superb view of surf, beach and headlands.

A beautiful beach and lagoon awaits the traveler who stops his car at the south end of the bridge crossing Little Sur River. Make sure you stop and take a peek.

South from the Little Sur and before the highway starts to veer inland, a huge, gray rock juts from the ocean, appearing to be a small Rock of Gibraltar. This is Point Sur Light Station. Built in 1899, the light has one million candlepower that flashes seaward for 25 miles every 15 seconds. Looking inland from Point Sur you can see the jagged peaks of mount Pico Blanco that dominate the skyline.

Cabrillo Highway veers inland from the lighthouse through stands of sycamore and redwood bringing you to Big Sur River and Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park, 820 acres in a level valley split by the river and surrounded by mountains of the Santa Lucia Range.

If it's a hot day and you're looking for a relaxing swim, the natural swimming pool formed from an artificial basin with river water flowing through and giant trees surrounding it, is one of the best in the state park system. Campers will find more than 200 individual camping sites and 13 miles of trails which also give access to 500 miles of trails in the adjoining Los Padres National Forest.

An easy hike is up to lace-like Pfeiffer Falls located in a fern lined canyon.

If it's the ocean and beach you prefer, drop down into Sycamore Canyon, just south of Big Sur park. This three-mile dirt toll road leads to magnificent Pfeiffer Beach.

If you want to explore a canyon and one with some history, stop at Lime Kiln Creek. About 100 years ago there was great activity here when the lime kilns were in operation and schooners put into the mouth of the creek to pick up the bricks. Now, the whispering of towering redwoods and cascading waterfalls are the only noise among the ghost-like kilns still remaining.

CARMEL VALLEY VILLAGE NEWS

UPPER CARMEL VALLEY SERENITY

California native pines and scrub oaks cover the rolling hills and near mountain peaks as one nears the Eastern reaches of the Valley. The ride from Route 1 to Route 101 is so well worth the time which is just a little over two hours. It is a trip to be driven slowly through cattle country, horse ranches, and just beautiful scenery, mile after mile. Take a lunch and plan to duck off at the Los Padres turn off, continuing on to the river side picnic area, where one may barbecue (with permit) or spread out all the goodies on rustic tables placed invitingly under spreading oak trees. While so near, take the Prince's Camp road which will take one right by the Earth Station where our Moon communications were received for release during our recent visit to the lunar orb. On Saturday and Sunday one may go on tours during the early afternoon.

Goings On

Richard and Cissy Swig (the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco) had a good old time visit with John and Aileen Bulmer at the Los Laureles Lodge this past week. They are opening two new hotels, one in New Orleans, and one in Dallas. The new Spa is now open at the Lodge and is a real plum for the valley. Kim Novak looked very intrigued when Aileen told her about it the other day after lunch. Will Fay welcomed an old acquaintance to his Fargo Restaurant when Dru brought in a former agent of hers to dine on that marvelous abalone steak they do so very well there.

May Youngberg says it took her years and years of eyeing that sun spot just beyond the fog bank to finally get up the courage to move into it, and is so glad she did. So is the Village for it is her charming blue and white Town and Country Properties building that greets you as you enter the Village.

Larry Cummings, realtor, The Plaza Linda Restaurant, and Glen Mewhinney's Village Art Center are all neighbors to the newest building going up in the Village. Pat Wester will be moving in with her Ballet Studio as soon as it is finished. Welcome to the neighborhood, Pat. Jean James of the White Oaks Theatre Guild is being happy all the time in the Keeping Room Kitchen part of the time, and is looking forward to a stint of Silk Screening at Dru's new studio in the old Los Laureles Milk House...other than these three interests, Jean has enrolled as an art major at MPC...busy gal, this one. And WOW! what talent. Marzi is as busy as ever making Monterey Jade like mad. Irene Baldwin is an avid bridge player and a great donator to all the worthy causes here in the Village. It is soothing to enter the dining room at Rippling River Resort with that lovely dappled light and the bubbling of the fountain, and even more soothing...the soft greens and ambers and topaz tints used in table decor, enhanced by the Sunday Brunch Eggs Benedict and Champagne. Lovely. The Valley Lodge has a goodly group of lucky youngsters enjoying their fun and games together with their parents. What a nice bit of good things to remember when the children have grown older. Marian Wilson is still hopeful about the Post Office not moving to Fort Road, with so many Villagers gladly lending her their support.

Who's To Know

The White Oaks Theatre, a non profit making organization, has established and maintains a most unique Theatre for the Acting Arts in Carmel Valley Village. It is a repertory theatre training center, the only one of its kind West of New York City. Young people come from all over the country, auditioning to get in, competing in singing and dancing and acting. There is a set designer, a costume designer, choreography master, light designer, and they often even write their own plays and music. During the summer season they play in their home Theatre, mostly musicals and a children's show matinee on Sundays. During the nine months of the winter they tour throughout California and play for children's groups. Last year 70,000 children were exposed to live theatre, most for the first time.

This White Oaks Theatre building is small, intimate, and versatile in as much as the design of the architecture allows for prescenium as well as theatre in the round etc. The surrounding mountains, meadows and white and black oaks trees make the perfect frame for this charmingly individual building that houses all this talent.

The production staff is made up of two: Technical Director, Michael Garrett and Stage Manager, Bob Moore. The Executive staff: Producer, Sally Hughes Church and Co-Producer, Barbara Cook; Artistic Director, Gale Peterson; Business Consultant, Gloria J. Moore; Program Director, Connie Harvey; Music, Sheila Jo White; Set Design, Jeffrey Jones; Costume Design, Don Mulderick. The Cast is comprised of: Carolyn Evans, Jeffrey Jones, Malia Elliott, Ron Stark, Gale Bradley, Mary Wardrum, Tony Willis, Mike Start.

This summer's cast is presenting The Fantasticks, and Electric Music Hall, and the children's show is the Box with Seven Faces.

The White Oaks Theatre Guild of Carmel Valley Village Women, is a Womens Club that raises money to help support the Theatre. Dig deep in that wallet next time they come to call...it is such a worthy cause...we should all take great joy in supporting it.

Vonn Hamilton, five year resident of Carmel Valley Village, is a sculptor of coming note. He works in a highly original art form, which he has developed himself, and which he calls Sculptural Collage. Antiques and Accents of Carmel has featured his work finished in an antique white, rich and mellow in feeling, and has sold all Vonn was able to make. Just recently Vonn has opened a one man show at the Keeping Room in Carmel Valley, introducing his handsome figurines in new color techniques, which employ the art of collage in creating the subtlety of color patterns, decorations, and accents. A part of his new collection was shown at the recent Gift Show in Los Angeles by one of the top showrooms there owned and operated by Ruth Sloan, one of the pioneers in the now largest market of this kind in the world, attracting thousands of buyers from all over the world each January and July. Wanamaker's of Philadelphia will be one of the first to buy and show his entire collection this fall which is a very gratifying opening into this new world of merchandising for Vonn.

Vonn was formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company as the featured male danceur and was a protege of Sol Hurok, who sent the Vonn Hamilton Dance troupe on an extended tour of the entire country.

Mission San Antonio to Honor Indian Workers on Labor Day

On Labor Day, and through the three-day weekend holiday, the Franciscan friars at Old Mission San Antonio, near the town of Jolon, will pay their respects to California's original labor force, the native Indians who were trained in carfts by the Franciscan missionary padres under Padre Junipero Serra and his successors. The Indians were the actual builders of the 21 missions which constitute California's famous mission chain from which most of our great coastal cities have grown and taken their names.

At San Antonio Mission there will be free exhibits and explanations, both on the extensive mission grounds and inside the buildings, of some of the more than 50 crafts and arts which were practiced by the Indians and padres in early mission days.

At this mission a reservoir and mill race were constructed which carried water across the land to the grist mill where corn was ground into flour. The Indians, under Spanish supervision, built an aqueduct several miles long which brought water from the Santa Lucia mountains to the reservoir and powered the mill.

On the three-day weekend of Labor Day holidays from August 30 through September 1, visitors may roam at leisure through the museum, curio rooms and mission grounds and see the special exhibits. Admission is free.

A thoroughly modern picnic grove back of the mission along San Antonio Creek is available to visitors without charge. It is a delightful spot for the family to crown the day's activities.

ANYONE FOR NOSTALGIA?

Who can remember, years ago before "The Road"
cut through,
When all Carmel would meet to show what wonders we could do
At Forest Theatre, by way of toil and paint and nails,
So that our current summer play might pack the house with sales?

The sculptor nationally known, the jolly Highlands cook,
The fallen star who lived alone, the maid who wrote a book,
The Metropolitan artiste, the poet of renown--
The noblest mingled with the least to entertain our town.

At home, a man who knew their needs would serve his children dinner,
That Mother might try out for leads and ba a likely winner;
And children seemed to understand they too could play their part
By giving all a helping hand--or just a helping heart.

This way, with luck and loyal teams and bracing Carmel weather,
We implemented rainbow dreams that linked our lives together.

Helen Faulkner

Cause and Effect

Seagull, your effortless flight
Soaring, Gliding
Over lazy black seals
floating and diving through the blue
Your soft colouring of greys and white
Over their shining glimmering wet bodies
Gave the clue

Ducks, floating on top of the water
With the wind, however it came
Looking so at ease in the vastness
Accomplishments appearing so tame

All at home in the air, the wind and the tide
Even a whimsical birdcall of curlew
All patterns within master pattern
Even the sun and the moon have their cue

Then I remembered long ago I read
Or perhaps it's a truth I heard
The downbeat of the bird wing
Is the uplift of the bird

ONCE DOLPHINS WERE MEN
(This Open Zoo – A Bestiary)

Once Dolphins were men,
Singing the ancient tides of fields,
Dancing the moon with wife and child,
Living the Then.

When a ruder man,
Who could not understand
The songs and dancing of love,
Came speaking of what would be,
Dolphins smiled;
Yet, wary of brasher fantasies,
Remembering Aphrodite's need,
They gathered up the Dolphin tribes,
And moved their house of love into the sea.

Specked with spume and free,
Dolphins dance the blue and green,
Sing the song of Now
That men have killed
Ambitiously.
And, with a fondness
For an old unconscious tie,
Guide the ships of lesser brothers
Safely home.

Our Men In Service

"The skills young men learn and practice in the Army can provide them with the means for gainful employment for the rest of their lives," said Sergeant Jose Garcia, the local Army recruiter.

"This invaluable training consists of formal classroom work honed and polished by on-the-job training under the supervision and instruction of experts with years of experience," he said.

Once adept in their field, Army men find satisfaction in knowing that they are performing a vital service to their country while sharpening skills that will last a lifetime.

At the present time, there are opportunities for men in numerous specialities, among them: Radar repairmen, Camera equipment repairmen, machinists, welder, dental lab technician and information specialist.

Surveys of civilian employment show that most employers welcome former servicemen who learned their jobs in the Army, since Army training is considered among the best.

Young men who are interested in preparing for a life of productivity are invited to contact Sergeant Garcia for a detailed description of opportunities in the United States Army. He may be reached at 372-4742, or see him at Room B4, Post Office Building in Monterey.

--Second Lieutenant Robert C. Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Brooks, Rt. 2, Carmel, has been awarded U.S. Air Force silver pilot wings upon graduation at Vance AFB, Okla.

Following specialized aircrew training at Sewart AFB, Tenn., he will be assigned to Pope AFB, N.C., for flying duty with a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

Army Captain Thomas E. Todd, 25, son of Mrs. Joyce Todd, Carmel, received his second award of the Bronze Star Medal July 16 at Ft. Riley, Kan.

Capt. Todd was presented the award for meritorious service in ground operations against hostile forces during his last assignment in Vietnam.

State Mobile Lab Assigned to Monterey

The state mobile laboratory is being assigned temporarily to Monterey.

It has been instrumental in the recent San Francisco Bay studies and will in the Monterey Bay area from Aug. 25 thru the 29 to work in conjunction with the volunteer study now being conducted on the Bay.

The lab will actually be stationed at the Marine School in Moss Landing.

The special function of the lab and the scientists working in it will be to analyze sealife pesticide contamination which was brought to light by a study recently completed by the Hopkins Marine School. The Lab will also check water samples from other areas where prior bacteria counts have been abnormally high.

Walter Wong, Monterey County Health Officer, said that the study which was originally planned to be s simple one involving bacteria counts only has grown to include a study of the bay currents, pesticides in sealife and the condition of our sewage facilities.

He commended the Jaycees and other groups working on the project saying that to the best of his knowledge a volunteer research group of this nature where government and private organizations work together has never been formed. He stated that the tax payers have been saved at least $100,000 because there has been neither a budget or any direct expenditures for tis project. He also said that we were very fortunate to have Scientists from the Navy Postgraduate School, Hopkins Marine School, and the Marine School in Moss Landing working with the project.

The Jaycees, who helped plan the project and have worked with it since last April, will be assisting the State Laboratory by gathering samples of sealife and water and other subjects they intend to study.

Recently phase two of the project was completed by the Central Coastal Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Kenneth R. Jones, executive officer, said that the Board has studied the twelve sewage treatment plants in the area. Out of the group four were complying with the Water Quality Control Board's waste discharge Requirements. Those that were in compliance were the two plants in Salinas, the City of Santa Cruz, and the Castroville Sanitation District.

Walter Wong stated that the results indicated that some communities should definitely start thinking about expanding their facilities. One of the problems with an inadequate plant is that they sometimes can't treat the sewage well enough to properly chlorinate it.

There are some indicators that point to a much greater pollution problem than we had anticipated; however, the research group has elected to withhold their findings until they are absolutely sure that they are correct and have properly documented their findings. The Jaycees have noted that the study has uncovered many new and interesting findings and they feel the study when released in April of 1970 will be of great significance to the community.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

There was a bill that passed both legislative bodies by a huge majority and its passage created considerable interest because I think people felt it was quite a milestone in the art of cooperation within religious denominations throughout the State.

The bill, by Senator Bielenson, (Dem.) of Los Angeles County, removes the currently granted Church exemption from payment of the 7% corporation tax on unrelated business net income.

Unrelated business income means group income derived from a trade or business not substantially related to the exempt purpose. The bill also requires the filing of an annual information return by Churches and religious organizations and certain exempt educational and charitable organization.

By its passage, California will become the first state in the union to tax non-religious enterprises owned by Churches.

As this bill was drafted long before I entered the legislative picture in Sacramento, I asked my seatmate, Hank Arklin (Rep.) of the San Fernando Valley if there had been considerable pressurefrom Church groups to kill the bill.

His answer was not only astonishing but I think encouraging.

He said, believe it or not, there was very little, if any opposition from the leading Church groups.

In fact, the three leading denominations within out State, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, in most part agreed that the tax was fair when placed on non-religious enterprises owned by Churches.

When we find this kind of interdenominational cooperation here at home and read about conflicts of interest abroad, I think we will all agree this type of cooperation is a step forward towards a better society for all mankind.

I have always known that the PG&E has done a remarkable job of selling and some of their advertisements are pretty darn clever, but I never realized how well they had influenced the younger generation to thinking electrically until the other morning.

We were spending a few days in a small mountain cabin back up the Arroyo Seco River. Our number three daughter, age 14, and a girl friend (of same vintage) decided to set the alarm clock for 5 a.m. and try their luck at fishing. When the clock failed to go off (for some unknown reason) I heard one say to the other as she drowsily reached for the clock and unconsciously started winding same, "I guess the PG&E juice must have gone off for a couple of hours because it is almost 7 a.m. now"

I will be attending interim committee meetings throughout the State from now until next January and one regular session in Sacramento in September, There won't be as much news to report to you folks here at home as there will be in the regular session next year. Therefore, I will take the liberty of writing this column every other week instead of every week during this interim period.

Editor Tells Christian Scientist Students That Some Unrest Is Good

Some forms of campus unrest should be stirred up and supported, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of The Christian Science Monitor, told a gathering of more than 6,000 college students in Boston last Friday.

He explained: "The exposure of evil and the application of regenerative measures are forms of unrest which we should certainly support. Unrest against injustice. Unrest against outdated and hidebound forms of organization and control. Unrest against hypocrisy. Unrest against gross materialism."

Christian Science students from colleges and universities in 31 countries met in Boston to consider their responsibilities and mission on the campus and in the world. The theme "Building in a Revolutionary Period," keynoted the three day meeting extending through Saturday, Aug. 30.

Canham cautioned the students that nihilism, or destruction for its own sake, is tragically misguided.

Law-breaking, he also warned, has no basis, except on rare occasions when one is preparing for court action to test a law's validity.

Christian Science, by its very nature, Canham told the students, is committed to the mission of radical healing of individual and social ills.

He quoted Mary Baker Eddy, who discovered and founded Christian Science: "One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations? constitutes the brotherhood of man? ends wars; fulfils the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself?' annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry,—whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes? equalizes the sexes? annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished, or destroyed" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.)

Note well, Canham emphasized, that "it is God who does this liberating and revolutionizing."

It takes great wisdom and courage, Canham said, to apply one's growing understanding of god to the needs of the times. He continued¾ "We should realize that impatience, even idealism, are not enough to cope with a situation. There are many valid facts which govern a given human probelm. Solutions are rarely simple."

He counseled the students to be patients with the "harried administrators" of colleges and universities, who are frequently "doing the best they can."

The ferment in thought today, he said, can be guided into extremely constructive channels.

"I have a feeling," Mr. Canham said, "that a good part of the revolt is a conscientious expression by people who have been the beneficiaries of privilege and who are rejecting a society which they feel is not sufficiently and honestly reformative. Very well, let us make it so."

Students came to the meeting from around the world. They represented colleges and universities in Indonesia, South Korea, India, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Nigeria, South Africa, as well as other countries. Nearly 200 students came from Europe.

Subjects dealt with during the meeting included international conflict, violence and revolution, campus unrest, morality, the drug problem, and academic opportunities and challenges. In group and panel discussions the students explored ways that religion can bring constructive change to all of these areas.

BiCentennial Needs Director

The Old Monterey Bicentennial is taking applications for a fulltime executive director, according to Lou Gold, president of the Bicentennial.

"In the two-and-a-half months I have been in office I have seen the Bicentennial grow in such great capacity, both in the enthusiasm the cities are now showing and with the great number of exciting programs they are planning, that we now need an executive director to run the operation on a day to day basis. "We are looking for a local man who is familiar with this area and the particular problems we face. He should be a Manager-type person with organizational ability, who can supervise committees, follow up details, explore ideas and generally run the operation."

Application forms may be obtained from the Bicentennial office at 539 Hartnell Street, Monterey.

Now Credit Cards For Italy

Italians will soon have an opportunity to join the "credit card revolution" which began in earnest three years ago in North America, and is now sweeping around the world, it was announced today.

The debut of bank credit cards will come to Italy in October, with the issuance of BankAmericards in Milan by Banca d'America e d'Italia, one of the nation's largest banks. It will be the first time a bank all-purpose credit card has been made available in Italy.

The new Italian card will be nearly identical to its American couterpart, using the same name and the same blue, white and gold format as BankAmericard. It will be fully interchangeable with the American card, as well as with Canada's Chargex, Britain's Barclaycard, Mexico's Bancomer, and Japan's Sumitomo card.

The Italian announcement followed the signing of an agreement through BankAmerica Service Corporation, San Francisco, which coordinates participation in the international credit card program for banks throughout the world.

Labor Day Campers... The Squeeze Is On

Although the situation doesn't appear to be as bad as it was for the Memorial Day and Fourth of July weekends, it will still be tight, and campers planning to stop at state park campgrounds had better get an early start.

This was the word from State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. regarding the upcoming Labor Day weekend, the last big holiday of the summer season.

"If possible," he said, "campers should head north. The central valley parks, the Sierra parks, and those in the northern redwood regions offer pretty good opportunities, but even these will be pretty much filled before the weekend is out. Our rangers have been instructed to direct campers to other nearby public and private campgrounds if their parks fill.

The state parks in the Southern California area that are completely reserved for the Labor Day weekends are Carpinteria State Beach, Doheny State Beach, El Capitan State Beach, Leo Carrillo State Beach. Mount San Jacinto Wilderness State Park, Pismo State Beach, San Clemente State Beach, San Elijo State Beach, and South Carlsbad State Beach.

Running a close second in popularity are the state parks in the Monterey-Santa Cruz area. The parks there that are booked solid are New Brighton State Beach, Portola State Park, Sunset State Beach, and Seacliff State Beach.

JUST A Thank-you note to all of you who have mentioned our Pine Cone ad when you've come to the Keeping Room this summer. So nice to know we're read, and so hppy to have made new friends.

Thank you, too, for liking our way with color and our flavorful concoctions. The Quiche Lorraine remains the number one favorite and a special thank you to the kind lady who said it was better than any she had eaten in Europe, and a pat on the head to the man who skeptically allowed as how he had certainly eaten worse but seldom better.

We look forward to seeing you regularly now that you know where we are, and in appreciation we are adding a new dish to tempt your taste buds. Yes! The Fondue Pots have arrived and we will be serving Swiss Gruyere Fondue starting in September. So-o-o-o

Come out for a dunking party!

IN THE QUARTER-ACRE SETTING for this unique two-bedroom home with its Somewhat-Mediterranean atmosphere. Offering a distant view of the ocean through trees from two of the rooms, this property is well worth inspecting. There is an attractive slate-floored entry with an unusual window framing a "treescape", a carpeted living room with two outlooks (ocean and patio), a completely equipped colorful peasant kitchen, an attractive dining area, two baths and attached garage. The owners are transferred to another area and will consider an offer on the listing price of $44,500 which includes carpeting, draperies and shutters, and all kitchen units.

Price Reduction
CHOICE COUNTRY ACRE now reduced to $16,500. This, in our opinion, is one of the best values in Rancho Canada for a building site on a cul-de-sac where most attractive homes are situated.
CARMEL LOT with a woodsy setting now priced at only $12,500. Walk to the Village from this location. . .ideal for a cosy retirement cottage.

Loryn Kehoe Introduced

Loryn Kehoe who made her debut at the Palo Alto Cotillion Saturday evening.

The three level Oriental home on Dolores near the Father Serra statue (the former Walch place) was the scene of a gay costume party last week.

The party was given to introduce Loryn Kehoe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kehoe, who have been coming down weekends from Hillsborough for the past six years.

Loryn was dressed in a long white and gold silk gown and matching sari, with a corsage of white phalenopsis orchids on gold leaves, as she greated her young debutante friends, most of them classmates at the Convent Sacred Heart in Menlo Park from which she was graduated in June.

A young cousin, Bruce Cowden, dressed as a Chinese Manderin, his hair grey and wearing a mustache, helped to usher the guests down to the lower level where there was dancing in the Polynesain room beside the indirectly lighted pool outdoors.

Bruce and his brother John, who came as Lawrence of Arabia, are the sons of Loryn's aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Cowden of Santa Cruz who were also present.

A creative young artist, Jeff Chandler of Portola Valley, painted designs on the faces of those arriving to look like masques, clown faces, or to go with their costumes.

Susanne Dyer of Saratoga was dressed in her great-grandmother's Victorian dress with bustle; another in Japanese kimona.

The young people, about 50 of them, danced to the music of Maggie's Backyard Blues Band, recommended by the Carmel Youth Center.

Rick Johnson, president of the student body council at Robert Louis Stevenson School, showed some movies he took of Loryn and her Dalmation dog at Carmel Beach, and there was a light show.

Rick and his sister was in Loryn's class, recently returned from Costa Rica where their family live.

This is where the Rotary–sponsored band of RLS students spent their vacation in the spring helping to build two classrooms for 70 primary grade children.

Loryn will enter Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart which has moved to an old estate in Purchase, New York. Loryn is unsure whether she wants to take pre-med or study law. Her father studied law at the University of San Francisco, but after returning from WWII, he became postmaster of San Mateo and went into building as a contractor.

Audience Enjoys Spanish Music And Dancing

Ha d there been rafters to hang upon, there would have been people hanging from them on Sunday afternoon at Forest Theater when dances and music of Spain were given by La Mariquita, dancer, and Juanito, guitarist.

The Flamenco music played so expertly by Juanito was well illustrated by the interesting steps and flirtations attitudes of the dancer, La Mariquita, who wore colorful costumes.

The audience responded to La Mariquita's invitation to clap in rhythm on the festive sunny day.
